Jayme L. Butcher
Partner and Co-Chair, Commercial
Litigation Practice Group
Blank Rome LLP

Jayme L. Butcher is a Pittsburgh-based litigation partner and co-chair of Blank Rome's firmwide commercial litigation practice. As a business litigator, Jayme assists her clients in a wide variety of disputes, including breach of contract, fraud, financial regulatory issues, and other business torts. Jayme handles litigation matters across the country and has first-chair experience in federal and state courts across the United States. Within her broad disputes practice, Jayme focuses on intellectual property disputes, misappropriation of trade secrets/non-compete cases, employment disputes including discrimination and wrongful termination, as well as financial regulatory issues, and a variety of other complex business matters.

Jayme was honored with a Pennsylvania Bar Association (PBA) President's Award in May 2022 for her outstanding commitment as co-chair of the PBA Large Law Firm Committee and for developing programming such as workplace issues tied to the pandemic and putting diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts into practice; and for supporting the PBA's adoption of a Seven-Point Wellness Pledge that encourages law firms to implement work/life balance guidelines. In 2022, Jayme co-chaired the 50/50 Women on Boards' Pittsburgh Conversation on Board Diversity, and she sits on the board for numerous non-profit organizations including United Way, Project Theia, the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, and Pittsburgh Women's Alliance.
